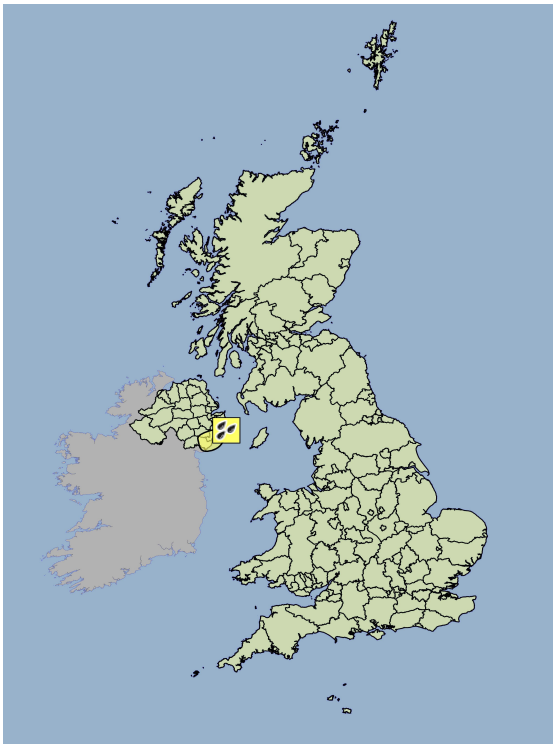
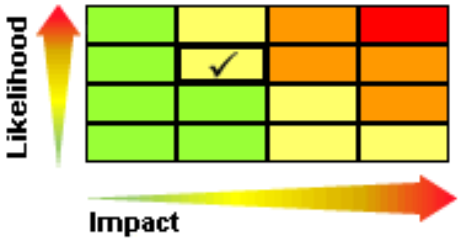
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
An active frontal system will cross Northern Ireland on Thursday night, bringing a spell of rain to all parts. The rain will be heaviest over South Down especially over high ground facing the strong to gale force south to southeasterly winds. Here, 20-30mm will fall quite widely with over 40mm possible in the Mountains of Mourne. The rain will clear to the east by daybreak on Friday.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 00:05 on Fri, 22nd Jan 2016 until 08:00 on Fri, 22nd Jan 2016

Outbreaks of rain will become persistent and heavy overnight and into the early part of Friday morning. With ground conditions becoming more saturated again, there is a risk of localised flooding. Drivers should be aware of some difficult driving conditions due to standing water and spray.
